WELCOME PARENTS

Pres. R. M. Heanis

It is a great pleasure to welcome the fathers and mothers of our students who have come for this "Parents' Day" celebration. We hope that you will enjoy walking over the campus with your sons and daughters and that you will find opportunity to meet their teachers and friends. We are anxious to have you visit some of the class rooms and laboratories where your boys and girls are spending the very best years of their lives. The most valuable products of the state of Iowa are its young men and young women. We are especially happy to have you parents with us at this time.

It is also a pleasure to welcome the University of Nebraska football team and its followers to Iowa State College for this great annual game.

We are glad to see those of Our Alumni who are here today. Iowa State, like all American colleges, is changing and developing. We hope you will find that your college is stronger and better in some ways than it was in your day, and that the best traditions of the earlier days are being maintained. We urge you to keep in touch with your Alma Mater and show your interest in her progress by frequent visits. You are always welcome.

R. M. Heanis.

CORNHUSKERS vs. CYCLONES

Gus F. Vossler
Iowa State

Nebraska took revenge in 1900, with a point margin of 30-0, ushering in a straight run of victories which stood up until 1906 the first year of the forward pass when the Cyclones presented a team that was truly a Cyclone. In the Iowa State lineup were Reppert, a powerful lunging fullback, and the Lambert brothers, a pair whose elusive backs gave the Huskers an afternoon of worries. When the Iowa Cyclone ceased blowing that day, it left the Huskers in its wake with 2 points, while Iowa State had 14.

The annual conflict of 1907 was one of those nip-and-tuck affairs, in which Nebraska plucked the victory wreath by the tight margin of 10 to

A more ancient football rivalry than that which exists between Iowa State and Nebraska would be ancient indeed. The Cyclones met the Cornhuskers first in 1896 when the gridiron sport was a contest of brawn and endurance and have played them every year, with a few exceptions, since.

That first contest went to the Huskers, 12 to 4, but the Cyclones had considerable to say as to the affair of '97. In fact, they said it 10 to 1, with Nebraska on the losing end.

The games of '98 and '99 served to keep the scales at an even balance, as Nebraska bugged the first one 23 to 10, while the Cyclones retaliated with a 33-0 shutout the following year—the only crushing victory ever administered by the Cyclones to the Huskers.

9. The Cyclones led the scrap until late in the last half when John Weller of Nebraska booted a 35-yard kick from placement squarely between the uprights for the winning margin. This kick has been referred to by many writers as the most phenomenal kick in football history. It was kicked in the face of a howling gale.

Although the majority of Nebraska-Iowa State scores have been close the Huskers have won 22 of the 27 games played, Iowa State won 4, while one contest ended 6 to 6. The point total stands 462 for Nebraska and 165 for Iowa State.

In recent years the scores have been comparatively close. In 1930 the Cyclones battled the Huskers to a 14-12 game, Nebraska winning.

In 1931 the Cyclones played Nebraska at Lincoln for the Big Six championship and lost 23-0. Last year the final score was 12 to 6 in the Huskers' favor.

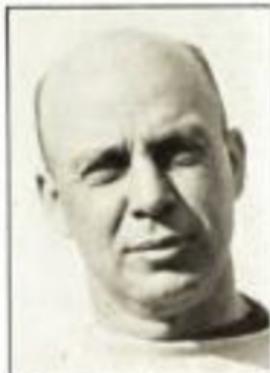

Today's game with the Cornhuskers is of unusual importance as it marks the opening of the 1933 Big Six football campaign for both teams, and is the first Big Six game played this season.

Both teams emerged victorious from previous scrapes. The Huskers smothered Texas University last Saturday, while the Cyclones have defeated Central College and the University of Denver.

BEAT NEBRASKA LAST IN 1919

Not since 1919 have the Cyclones whipped the Cornhuskers, but that year a light but fighting Iowa State eleven blanketed their much heavier opponents, 3-0.

The Cyclones outplayed the Huskers throughout the first half but failed to reach their objective until near the close of the second quarter. Dispairing of reaching the goal line by hugging the ball, Davis of Iowa State dropped back and sent a dropkick flying directly over the crossbar from the 35-yard line.

Not to be denied their well-earned victory the Cyclones fought like Demons the last half and staved off several scoring threats by the Huskers.

STATEMENT

Some time ago the Federal Congress passed an act providing for a tax on admissions to athletic events, the tax being ten per cent (10%).

Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor has ruled that this tax does not apply to athletic contests and exhibitions of Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. However, a test suit has been instituted by the government in West Virginia and pending the outcome of this suit, ten per cent (10%) will be paid to the government. If the court sustains Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor's position, then this ten per cent (10%) will be returned to the purchaser.
